Fast-reference facts and rules to lock in before test day.

Exam At-a-Glance

- 150 scoreable questions — pace yourself against this count.
- 150 minutes time limit — that works out to roughly 1 minute per question.
- $49 exam fee.
- 70% passing score.

Must-Remember Numbers

- Questions: 150
- Time: 150 min
- Fee: $49
- Pass: 70%

Pass-Line Math

With a 70% threshold on 150 questions, you need to answer roughly 105 questions correctly (0.70×150). That leaves a margin of about 45 questions you could miss and still pass.

Pacing Rule

- $150 \text{ min} \div 150 \text{ questions} = \sim 60 \text{ seconds per question}$.
- Flag-and-move: never sink more than a minute on a single item on the first pass — bank easy points, return to hard ones with leftover time.
- Reserve the final few minutes to confirm no questions were left blank (unanswered = wrong at a 70% bar you can't afford to gift away).

Day-Of Checklist

- Budget the $49 fee at registration.
- Aim well above the 70% line — target $\sim 80\%$ in prep so exam-day nerves don't push you under.
